Thailand Smelting and Refining Company Limited, 'Thaisarco', part of the AMC Group, is a tin smelter and refiner based in Phuket, Thailand. The company sources tin, either as tin ore concentrates for smelting or as a basic or crude metal for further refining, from various parts of the world. Thaisarco is a Conflict Free Smelter (CFS) as determined by the Conflict Free Sourcing Initiative \(CFSI\), as founded by EICC and GeSi. The country of origin of our input materials is reported to downstream companies via the CFSI in their Reasonable Country of Origin Inquiry (RCOI), all of which is verified by independent third party audit. The company is very well acquainted with the OECD due diligence guidance on conflict-affected and high-risk areas. Consequently, in addition to the chain of custody documentation required by the Conflict Free Sourcing Program (CFSP), Thaisarco conducts its own due diligence on its supply chain, visiting mine sites as appropriate and assessing risk accordingly. This due diligence activity is not limited to CFSP Level 3 countries in Central Africa.

Thaisarco currently sources some tin ore concentrates from Myanmar but only from the Southern region of the country, particularly the Tanintharyi Division, all of which is under the direct jurisdiction of the national government of the Union of Myanmar. Thaisarco does not source from the Wa region in Myanmar. Furthermore, Thaisarco regularly checks relevant current sanctions lists and can confirm that neither it nor its suppliers have any dealings with any individuals or entities currently on the list.

Customers and trading partners of Thaisarco can be assured of the company's ever ongoing vigilance in ensuring its products avoid funding, or links to, conflict.

A copy of the company's Supply Chain Policy (formally the Conflict Minerals Policy) is available here.
